PREFACE

The accompanying bibliography we hope will serve several purposes. It will indicate to interested faculty and students what and where material on various subjects may be found. It will also indicate, by an absence of research, areas which need studies.

We in the Bureau of Junior College Education hope that we in turn can encourage studies to be made in those areas which at present are neglected and which seem to be of usefulness in the further development of junior colleges in California.

Junior colleges are beginning to assign specific responsibilities for study and research to someone on their staff designated as "Director of Institutional Research," or something similar. We hope this bibliography will be of special use to them and that they in turn will report to us studies they are undertaking or have completed. This will make it possible for us in the Bureau of Junior College Education to prepare annual supplements if this type of service proves to be useful.

Emil O. Toews, Chief
Bureau of Junior College Education

INTRODUCTION

This compilation of books, articles, and papers on the California junior college movement deals with those of recent publications or origins. The information was collected through the kindness and labors of Senator Thomas A. Kuchel of California and his staff, who collected the information from the Library of Congress and the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Also included are lists from the American Association of Junior Colleges; the Junior College Journal; the Winter, 1963, issue of Improving College and University Teaching; a report of the University of California, Los Angeles, of their Junior College Leadership Program under Professor B. Lamar Johnson; and a report from Dale Tillery of the University of California, Berkeley. Undoubtedly, there are many studies not included, and if the reader should know of any, we in the Bureau of Junior College Education would be glad to hear of them.

The articles and books are listed by author under various headings. Articles in magazines are followed by the title of the magazine. Other articles are unpublished papers, with the name of the institution where the work was done listed and the date, if known. Wherever known, a brief account of the contents is given.
